

PRESS RELEASE

SOLO SHOW INGE H. SCHMIDT

SILENT LANDSCAPES OF FROST AND FLOW 11 JANUARY – 28 FEBRUARY 2026

'Along the River Bank' by Inge H. Schmidt, 2025, mixed media on Japanese paper on canvas, 150x100cm

Husk Gallery is pleased to present Silent Landscapes of Flow and Frost, the third solo exhibition by Berlin-based artist Inge H. Schmidt (born 1952, Wiehe, Germany), on view in its gallery space in the Rivoli Brussels. Inspired by her long journeys along secluded rivers and sustained observation of frozen landscapes, the exhibition explores water as a guiding element. Silence, slow movement and light shape her visual language, balancing flow and stillness through subtle chromatic shifts and restrained rhythms in her drawings and paintings. Through seasonal transformations from water to ice and snow, the works invite the viewer into a contemplative space where perception slows and silence becomes tangible.

If Inge H. Schmidt were to align herself with one of the classical four elements, it would undoubtedly be water. For many years, she has travelled in an inflatable boat along secluded rivers and river branches, both in her home country and abroad. Drifting slowly with the current, enveloped by silence, she enters a state of heightened attention. In this quietude, a mysterious universe unfolds through careful observation. Along the riverbanks, in and on the water, shifting forms, colors and reflections emerge, while the trees lining the shores accompany her like silent companions.

Silent Landscapes of Flow and Frost presents recent work inspired by these journeys and by Schmidt's sustained engagement with river and frozen landscapes. In these environments, silence is not an absence but a presence—one that allows movement, light and spatial depth to come into focus. Through subtle chromatic transitions and restrained formal rhythms, her latest series explores the delicate balance between flow and stillness. Seasonal transformation plays a central role in this body of work. As water turns into ice and snow, sound is further muted and the world appears suspended. Countless nuances of white, shaped by light, unfold a natural and fragile beauty.

Rooted in the tradition of landscape art, Schmidt's latest work moves beyond topographical representation. The landscape genre constitutes an important aspect of her practice, alongside human figuration and still life, and reflects the diversity of her artistic interests. Rather than depicting specific places, she distils moments of stillness and beauty, transforming the landscape into a contemplative field. Her images evoke landscapes shaped by quiet observation, where time seems to slow and perception becomes more acute.
